Amendment

January 21 ,2026 - AIRC Short-term Fellowships may be used exclusively to support mobility periods with a total duration between one and three months. AIRC Short-term fellowships cannot be used to fund, even partially, any mobility period exceeding three months (See page 4 and 5 of the Call).

Foreword

Fondazione AIRC per la ricerca sul cancro ETS (AIRC) is offering Short-term Fellowships, which may be awarded for a duration of one to three months. [Amendment January 2026 – AIRC Short-term Fellowships may be used exclusively to support mobility periods with a total duration between one and three months. AIRC Short-term fellowships cannot be used to fund, even partially, any mobility period exceeding three months.] The fellowships are meant to support young scientists or physician scientists wishing to learn a new technique and/or acquire new skills. Fellowships may be used for short term visits to a cancer-focused laboratory or hospital (“Hosting Institution”) located outside of Italy or, when in Italy, in a different region from where the “Institution of origin” (current affiliation) is located.

AIRC Short-term Fellowships cover mobility costs, including travel, accommodation, and health insurance, if needed, for applicants spending time abroad.

In 2026, the Call foresees three different deadlines depending on the proposed date of departure: a winter deadline for departures between May and August 2026, a spring one for departures between September and December 2026 and an Autumn one for departures between January and April 2027.

1. Eligibility criteria for applicants

This Call is open to applicants of any nationality. At the time of submission, the following eligibility criteria must be met:

- Applicants must meet one of the following criteria:
 - Hold a PhD or a Specialty (i.e., “specializzazione area sanitaria”) in scientific disciplines for no more than 10 years at the time of submission. For applicants with both a PhD and a Specialty, the date when the first degree has been attained will count for eligibility;
 - Be enrolled in a PhD or Specialty program in scientific disciplines;
- Applicants must be working in the field of cancer research at a laboratory or hospital located in Italy;
- Applications must be submitted within the appropriate deadline depending on the departure date (please refer to paragraph 7).

Furthermore, the following rules apply:

- [Amendment January 2026 – AIRC Short-term Fellowships may be used exclusively to support mobility periods with a total duration between one and three months. AIRC Short-term fellowships cannot be used to fund, even partially, any mobility period exceeding three months.]
- Funds may support individual or multiple visits to the same Hosting Institution, as defined by the experimental needs. In case of multiple separate trips, all visits together must total no more than three months and finish within one year of the notification of the award;
- Applicants are allowed to submit only one application in response to AIRC Calls for Short-term fellowships 2026;

- Only one application per lab of origin is allowed within the indicated 2026 deadlines.

The following applications will not be considered:

- Applications to return to laboratories or clinics where the candidate had previous experience;
- Applications for visits that have already started;
- Applications to visit laboratories or hospitals that can be reached by daily commuting;
- Applications from candidates with permanent positions and/or from AIRC individual grant holders;
- Applications from previous recipients are not accepted, as the short-term fellowship is a one-time award.

Applications from researchers who do not meet the eligibility criteria will be rejected.

2. The Visit Program

Applications must include a detailed, cancer-relevant research visit plan approved by both the host lab and the originating lab heads. It must explain the activity that will be undertaken at the Hosting Institution, describe how the AIRC Short-term Fellowship will broaden the scientific knowledge of the applicant and how the Institution of origin will benefit from the applicant's experience. In the case the applicant foresees several visits to the Hosting Institution, include a clear justification in the program.

Information related to the fellowship award (fellow's first and last name, Hosting Institution, visit program, amount granted) may be published on AIRC journals, websites and social media, and on the website of any partner funder also contributing to the program. Fellow's contact data can be disclosed to third parties appointed by AIRC for engagement in AIRC institutional initiatives, in compliance with EU Regulation 2016/679.

3. Funding

AIRC Short-term Fellowships will cover mobility costs up to a maximum of €1500 per month (maximum total budget €4500). Financial support must be requested through the specific section of the online form. Only the following costs can be covered by the fellowship:

- One round-trip to/from the Hosting Institution (economy fare);
- Accommodation;
- Local public transport;
- Health insurance, where applicable.

Please note that applicants can request financial support only for their own expenses, not for those of their dependents.

Applicants must declare within the dedicated form any available or pending financial support related to the planned activities. AIRC must be immediately informed of any application and/or granting of additional funding secured after the submission of the application. Be aware that AIRC funds cannot be used to cover expenses already supported by other funding sources. AIRC reserves the right to verify possible overlaps with other funding agencies.

Funds will be transferred either directly to the fellowship holder or to the Institution of origin. AIRC will not be able to top up applications in case of actual costs exceeding the amount approved by the Evaluation Committee.

4. The review process

All applications undergo an initial administrative review for compliance with guidelines and eligibility; those that do not conform will be rejected at this stage (“triage”). Eligibility is based on the documentation in the application; applications cannot be modified after the electronic submission.

Each application will be evaluated by an Evaluation Committee chaired by the AIRC Scientific Director. It will comprise members of the AIRC Technical Scientific Committee (CTS) chosen by the Scientific Director on the basis of the necessary expertise and without conflicts of interest with the applicants and their supervisors.

Applications will be evaluated based on the impact that the proposed visit will have on the applicants’ career development and on the scientific value of the expertise acquired during their staying. Applications to/from laboratories funded by AIRC will be considered positively in the evaluation phase.

At the end of the evaluation process, candidates will be notified of the outcome of the applications. The funding decision cannot be appealed.

Successful applicants will be asked to formally accept the AIRC Short-term Fellowship and to sign a copy of the Terms & Conditions form (Annex 1). Please, make sure you have read and understood the content of this form before submitting your application.

5. Fellowship activation

In case of assignment, several documents must be completed before the Short-term Fellowship can formally start; detailed instructions will be provided.

Communications or press releases regarding the awarding of a Short-term Fellowship cannot be made until all documents have been submitted and approved by AIRC; all related communications should be agreed upon with the AIRC press office.

6. Upon completion of the visit

Within a month from their return, Short-term Fellowship holders must:

- Fill in the Expenses report form and provide a copy of the expenditure receipts assembled in a single PDF file;
- Provide feedback about the experience (max 1 page). The report must describe the activities undertaken during the visit and the impact on the project and career development of the fellow. It may include figures, diagrams and tables. If applicable, include here a plan about how to share the newly acquired expertise with other members of the team of origin.

AIRC will refund the mobility expenses either directly to the fellowship holder or to the Institution of origin, as indicated in the form.

AIRC will not be able to top up applications in case of actual costs exceeding the amount approved by the Evaluation Committee. Please find below some tips and suggestions:

- round-trip to/from Hosting Institution: search for fares online and strike a likely average; remember to add here costs for transport to/from airports/train stations;
- take advantage of websites (e.g. <https://www.expatis.com/cost-of-living>) to have an idea of the cost of living in the city where the Hosting Institution is located. It will help you estimate housing expenses and transportation costs;
- to convert estimated expenses from local currency to Euros, you can use an online currency converter such as <https://www1.oanda.com/currency/converter/>. Please note that this is just an estimate. AIRC will refund expenses based on the exchange rate on the day of the transaction;
- plan for a reasonable lifestyle during your stay.

14. Awarded/Pending Support

In this section, applicants are requested to disclose any additional financial support that they have been, or are expected to be granted to cover the expense of their visit program. In particular:

- Awarded support: the applicant has already obtained funding or received notification of funding;
- Pending support: the proposal is in preparation or under consideration by the funding agency.

Be aware that AIRC money cannot be used to cover for expenses already paid by other sources of funding.

15. FEA Acceptance (“Firma Elettronica Avanzata”)

This form applies only to candidates who hold an Italian tax code (“codice fiscale”). Applicant must sign the submitted application with the digital signature tool provided by AIRC: refer to the FEA instructions for details. If the applicant does not hold an Italian tax code (“codice fiscale”), please contact our offices at fellowships.applicationsupport@airc.it.

Proposal submission and digital signature

Applications must be submitted and digitally signed according to the appropriate deadline.

Please follow these steps:

- Access the “Check your forms” section anytime in order to:
 - a) check and see whether each form has been correctly filled out. A yellow warning sign will indicate whether there are missing data or inconsistencies that will not prevent the application from being submitted. For mandatory forms that are incomplete, the system will indicate the information that must be provided in order to submit the application;
 - b) view and print the application in its incomplete/complete state. By clicking on “Create draft” and then on “Open submission draft” you can download the PDF draft generated by the system;

- The “Submit” section becomes available only when all mandatory forms are complete and have the green flag. The submit section automatically creates the complete PDF draft: carefully read the PDF draft and verify that the entire content is correct and readable (e.g. make sure that applicant’s personal data and information regarding the Hosting Institution is up to date; make sure that PDF documents that have been correctly uploaded and have a high enough resolution; that all publications in the time range indicated have been added, with the inclusion – if necessary – of the correct supporting documentation, etc.).
- After having ascertained that all data are correctly reported in the proposal’s PDF draft, please check the box “I have checked the PDF files included in the application, and I confirm they are correct”. Only after this step it is possible to click on “Submit”.

Be aware that after clicking on “Submit” it will not be possible to make any further modifications.

Applicants will receive a confirmation of the submission by e-mail.

The following documents will be generated and stored in the “Your submissions archive” section of the Personal Area:

- PDF file of the application: this is the document that will be sent to the reviewers.
- Publications addenda: it contains the list of publications (also present in the PDF file of the application) and supporting documentation for papers in press, Web of Science Core Collection publications and authorship certifications;

A copy of the above documents should be saved for future references.

The application cannot be modified after the online submission.

The evaluation of the proposal is ONLY based on the information contained in the application.

To complete the application, the applicant must digitally sign the submitted document: please refer to the FEA instructions for details.

If applicants hold an Italian tax code (“codice fiscale”), they must sign the application with the digital signature tool provided by AIRC: refer to the FEA instructions for details. If applicants do not hold an Italian tax code, please contact our offices.
